PRESENTATION

If we live in this world challenged by a reality of pandemic, wars and natural disasters, among other difficulties at the local level, to inform the protagonists of solidarity with life, human development, peace and dignity, the following concerns jump out:

How has this affected us in terms of support for young students? What difficulties and achievements have been had in 2022? And in this regard, what do we propose for this year 2023?

With the Russia-Ukraine conflict, there has been a rise in the cost of living, coupled with the country's recession law, has motivated the emigration of more young people and adolescents, in order to protect themselves and help the deteriorated economy of their family. Consequently, young people are at stake to decide between studying or emigrating.

The trend is to decrease the number of students applying for support and one of the beneficiaries immigrated to the United States and intends to continue his studies online, as well as give back what he received to help another young person in need.

Among the achievements we had are: the graduation of five new professionals, the approval of subjects of the majority of the beneficiaries, the students of the pre-university course, and the eighteen former beneficiaries who returned to benefit receive ID.

In this way, towards the 34 years of solidarity with St. Joseph Seattle Parish and the 22 years of making possible together this opportunity to study to have more possibilities of employment in our country, it is still necessary because it is an alternative window to the development of our communities.

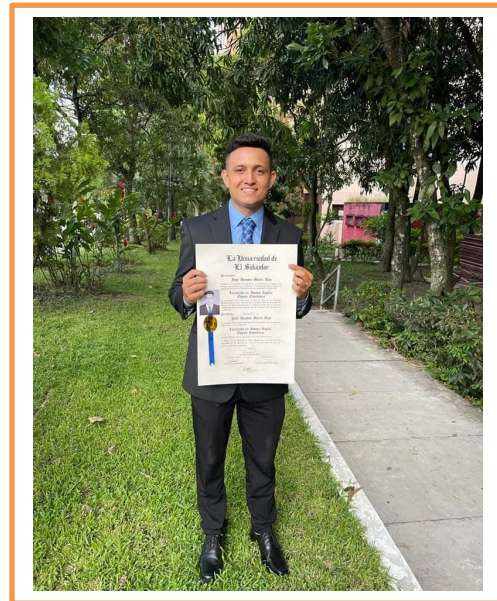

"... culture is a tribute to God." Msgr. José Joaquín Salcedo, Colombia.

OUR PURPOSE

Continue to support the youth of the Parish in their higher studies through a process of formation of new social, integral and solidary conscience.

Of these six students of the pre-university course, three are new beneficiaries

María Eugenia Benavides and José Amadeo Marín, two of the five 2022 graduates

INFORMATIVE SYNTHESIS

In the accompaniment

1. We held six meetings of the DHP committee for the selection, monitoring and evaluation of beneficiary students. These meetings were once again face-to-face in the communities with beneficiaries: Arcatao, Sicahuites, Carasque, Huizucár, Nueva Trinidad and Arcatao.
2. Visits of the promoter in the houses of beneficiary students for three days a week to know their situation, solve the logistics, maintenance of the houses and necessary advice.
3. We made twelve extended meetings with beneficiary students from January to December 2022, with the agenda: Greeting and welcome, prayer, training theme: mental health of bio dance, how to bring good nutrition, use of renewable energy, emotion annex, crafts, my place in the world.

María José, Theologian, facilitating the theme "My place in the world".

4. An important part of accompanying each student is their academic performance and decisions during the year. Of the 21 students benefited, six left, four of them to finish their studies and one to take advantage of a safe opportunity to emigrate and continue their studies online.

5. The performance of the service to the community on behalf of each beneficiary is monitored and thus served in: schools, community directives, pastoral and church areas, soccer fields, drinking water projects and health units.

6. It motivates, facilitates and accompanies the students of the last year of baccalaureate the Pre-University Course from March to October. 7 students participated Arcatao and Nueva trinidad, and reinforced knowledge of: Mathematics, Physics, Psychology, Motivation, Methods and strategy of study and learning, techniques of oral and written expression, Social, on professional vocation, Language, The art of serving and Sciences.

7. When the student graduates or finishes the studies of his career, he may or may not request a house benefit or loan and we will attend him as he decides. If you leave, we monitor your process and encourage you to persevere until you graduate. Some do theses and others do other work to graduate.

At the time of his graduation we rejoice with his family and feel his desire to find a job in his professional field.

Some ask for the statement of accounts to know how much was invested in them and how much they will return when they work, as agreed.

The graduation of five other new professionals thanks to the solidarity of brothers and friends beyond our homeland borders: Cristian Daniel, María Eugenia, José Amadeo, Reina Isabel and Aylin Adali. Next, their joyful poses,

Men and women servants of the community!

CONCLUDE

1. That solidarity is the key to the possibility of this good of human development that enables human fulfillment and greater family and community well-being.
2. That, although it is not easy or quick to get a job, a well-felt and appropriate profession is a constant personal satisfaction while having a certain capacity to serve, analyze and influence decision-making, which otherwise is not possible for someone who was born in the field with basic deficiencies.

3. That each new professional is good news in the midst of so many that are not worldwide, which are a bet on the life and peace of our country.
4. That the Casa San José is a great sample of the human and Christian conscience that people possess have shown solidarity and solidarity with us as a grateful response for what the Providence of God has granted them in their lives. Help from home in the city is basic even for people who go to hospitals and want to stay for one night.
5. That, thanks to the five sources of solidarity, in the United States and in Spain, plus that of the former beneficiaries of this opportunity, we supported 21 students during the year 2022 and we hope to give it to 18 students selected for this year 2023:

Karen Alexandra, Zulma Jennifer, Stephanu Tatena, Norma Liseth, Brayam Fernando, José Tomás, Martín Joel, Jakeline Xiomara, Leticia Nataly, Stefany Arina, José Maurilio, Saúl Arnulfo, Denis Josué, Brenda Emileth, Cristián Saúl, Miguel Isaac and Krisia Ibeth.

THE PURPOSE OF SOLIDARITY

"It is never too late to learn whenculture is a tribute to God. Our effort must be aimed at educating integrally, that is, with attention to their global needs to have health of the body, capacity and ability to produce more and better, intelligence to better use the means at their disposal and awareness of the inestimable gift of their personal dignity. Msgr. José Joaquín Salcedo, Colombia, Sept. 1963

"We are committed to preparing the new generations in education to bring out professionals in the field." Popular educators, year 1999.

On April 19, 2001, at a municipal meeting of Nueva Trinidad, it was agreed to support young people, bet on them, as a potential support for the development of their communities. And on April 20, at the municipal meeting of Arcatao, it was agreed to unify efforts integrating parents, the community, teachers, the Parish and the Municipal Council. "The more trained people there are, the better contributions you will have, the more criticism, the more answers and practices. We do not prepare young people to go far away and only benefit personally, at best, but we seek to benefit them by benefiting their community so that their human fulfillment is fuller. If someone leaves, they have to contribute to our area so that other generations continue to promote more future.
