“Go and tell John what you hear and see: the blind regain their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor have the good news proclaimed to them.”

GAUDETE!
REJOICE!
At the Coast in Advent

We must uncenter our minds from ourselves; We must unhumanize our views a little, and become confidant As the rock and ocean that we were made from.

-Robinson Jeffers-

I have lived many places in my life, including four years in Washington, DC and two years in Chicago. I love both those cities, but I could never live in either one for the long term—I would miss the ocean too much. Nothing in creation so draws me to God as does the ocean—“our great sweet mother,” as one poet called it. And for me, that is especially true when I go to the coast of the Northwest in the winter, as I had the chance to do for a couple of days this last week.

The Pacific coast in winter is different than it is in summer—like a boxer in training, all the luxuries are stripped away, exposing the primal forces, the sinew and the muscle. At this time of year, the long languid sunshine of summer gives way to a low hanging sun, whose jabs of blinding light break through Michaelangelo clouds to startle and define the day, even as moments of storm and fog ready themselves at a distance. Gone are the great folds of warm, soft sand leading down to the shoreline, and the beckoning waves that splash around the feet of children. In winter, the soft sand is pushed back in great dunes against the houses, like spectators at a sporting match. The beach is carved by rain and sea into something more primitive, into its essential form—marked only by the few tufts of kelp, broken loose in the churning sea, and by the great logs, washed down from the coastal forests. And then there are the waves—whitecaps whipped by the wind, which trip over one another like a never-ending avalanche of foam and water—sweeping high up the sand, indifferent to those few who walk the shore, challenged only by the streams of run-off returning from the mountains to their ancient source.

Walking along the coast in winter, the frost glistening on kelp and sand, I begin to break free of the gravity of the now—the force of deadlines and of other people’s expectations, which hold me in my small orbit of time—and I encounter something more, an ancient freedom, where all things are connected and a higher vision is possible. Here is the sea: churning and moving as it has for millions of years, constantly fed by streams and rivers that empty into it, yet never filled. Instead, this timeless sea is bound to sky and wind, to the motions of waters at the other end of the earth and to the forces of the distant moon, who pulls upon it in the tides and who is held by it in a timeless embrace. All life, attests the ocean, is connected; all change—the carving of the rocks and the shaping of the hills—but moments rising and returning here. We emerged from such an ocean, and each one of us still carries it within: in the salty waters of our body; in the movement of our blood; in the roar that fills our ears when everything else is silent; in the great cycle that brings us forth, that holds us in being, and that will, at last, return our elements to the sea.

Such a vision can liberate us from the tyranny of the everyday—from the small frustrations and obligations that so often seem important, but are as passing as a bit of foam blowing across the sand. Yet, it should also remind us that we are not so different from one another, and that all the ways we separate and divide people by race or religion, by nationality or status, by wealth or power, by gender or physical ability are mere illusions—untrue to the nature of our being and to the reality of our origin. Though we are as diverse as the waves, as unique as each outcrop of stone and plant, we are part of a single whole. We are dependent upon one another, bound to one another by nature and by grace. We are grounded in a profound, unescapable unity; which, like the sea itself, is constantly in motion and is ever the same. Such is the deep truth of our world, a truth many would deny, but which creation itself affirms with every rising tide, with every rolling wave.

In the season of Advent, amid darkness and storm, we are called to awaken; called to set aside the comfortable ideologies in which we have slumbered, and to see the truth that comes in God’s communion with the world. No longer trapped by the illusion that we are alone, no longer caught in the imaginary importance of our own ego, we are reminded that every dark corner is lit by grace, that every refugee and outcast, every president and king, every mother and child is born of the same great ocean of love.

Re deem us for eternal day;
And God the Spirit, Three in One,

O Christ, Redeemer of us all,
You came, O Savior, to set free
Not as a monarch, but the child
All things on earth with one accord,
Defend us while we dwell be low
Praise, honor, might and glory be

We pray you hear us when we call.
Your own in glorious liberty.
Of Many, blameless mother mild.
Like those in heav'n, shall call you Lord.
From all as saults of our dread foe.
From age to age eternal ly.

Blessing The Advent Wreath

Penitential Act

I confess to almighty God and to you, my brothers and sisters, that I have greatly sinned, in my thoughts and in my words, in what I have done and in what I have failed to do, Strike breast during next line.

through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault.
therefore I ask blessed Mary ever-Virgin, all the Angels and Saints, and you, my brothers and sisters, to pray for me to the Lord our God.
First Reading
The desert and the parched land will exult; the steppe will rejoice and bloom. They will bloom with abundant flowers, and rejoice with joyful song. The glory of Lebanon will be given to them, the splendor of Carmel and Sharon; they will see the glory of the LORD, the splendor of our God. Strengthen the hands that are feeble, make firm the knees that are weak, say to those whose hearts are frightened: Be strong, fear not! Here is your God, he comes with vindication; with divine recompense he comes to save you. Then will the eyes of the blind be opened, the ears of the deaf be cleared; then will the lame leap like a stag, then the tongue of the mute will sing.

Those whom the LORD has ransomed will return and enter Zion singing, crowned with everlasting joy; they will meet with joy and gladness, sorrow and mourning will flee.

Responsorial Psalm  Psalm 146 Lord, Come and Save Us  Haugen

Happy those who keep faith with you, securing justice for the oppressed, who give your food to each hungry heart, your freedom to each captive.

You give your sight to all the blind, you raise up those bent low.
Your heart is near to the broken ones, you welcome in the stranger.

The weak and poor you sustain in love,
the wicked ones you bring to destruction;
for ever more shall your reign endure, to ev’ry generation.

Second Reading  James 5:7-10

Be patient, brothers and sisters, until the coming of the Lord. See how the farmer waits for the precious fruit of the earth, being patient with it until it receives the early and the late rains. You too must be patient. Make your hearts firm, because the coming of the Lord is at hand. Do not complain, brothers and sisters, about one another, that you may not be judged. Behold, the Judge is standing before the gates. Take as an example of hardship and patience, brothers and sisters, the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord.

Gospel

When John the Baptist heard in prison of the works of the Christ, he sent his disciples to Jesus with this question, “Are you the one who is to come, or should we look for another?” Jesus said to them in reply, “Go and tell John what you hear and see: the blind regain their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor have the good news proclaimed to them. And blessed is the one who takes no offense at me.”

As they were going off, Jesus began to speak to the crowds about John, “What did you go out to the desert to see? A reed swayed by the wind? Then what did you go out to see? Someone dressed in fine clothing? Those who wear fine clothing are in royal palaces. Then why did you go out? To see a prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet. This is the one about whom it is written: Behold, I am sending my messenger ahead of you; he will prepare your way before you. Amen, I say to you, among those born of women there has been none greater than John the Baptist; yet the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.”

WAIT FOR THE LORD: ADVENT TAIZE PRAYER SERVICE with Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament

Wednesday, December 21st, from 7:30-8:30 pm, St. Joseph’s Church, Presider: Deacon Steve Formed in the French town of the same name in 1940, Taizé prayer blossomed from a prayer community intended to create a place of peace and refuge in war-torn France. Taizé prayer consists of a series of repetitive melodies and chants interspersed with reflection and a period of contemplative silence. Brother Roger, the founder of the Taizé community, says of the meditative prayer: “Nothing is more conducive to a communion with the living God than a meditative common prayer with, as its high point, singing that never ends and that continues in the silence of one’s heart when one is alone again.” Our theme this time is “Active Waiting” as we prepare our hearts to receive Christ born anew. Similar to the Novena of Grace, we will invite participants to write down a prayer petition to be voiced aloud in the service. If you would like to share your musical talents, please contact Paula at shiva_paula@yahoo.com or Drew at cosmo787@gmail.com, or contact Deacon Steve at stevew@stjosephparish.org or 206-965-1646 if you want to be a greeter, reader, or for any general questions.

Prayer Tree

St. Joseph Community extends its prayers and hopes for the following intentions: For Virginia’s healing after surgery and physical therapy . . . For the men and women in blue who serve and protect us, we pray for their safety . . . Thank you donors for your support of our recent Blood Drive – your donation makes a vital difference . . . As we prepare for His coming, let us be at peace within ourselves.

“Do not let us get caught up in trivialities but help us to see what really matters.”
~Robert Morneau’s Waiting in Joyful Hope

Help with Church Decorations!

Join fellow parishioners on Sunday, December 18th, to prepare the Church for Christmas. This is a great opportunity for new parishioners to get to know others in our community. Immediately following the 11 am Mass, we will gather for a quick lunch in the Arupe Room of the Parish Center, then head over to the Church, divide in teams, and thoroughly clean the church, light the trees, hang the wreaths and set out the poinsettias. Bring the family. Stay an hour or three. Make it an annual tradition!

Co-sponsored by Christ Our Hope Catholic Church

Thank you to all who have made gifts and pledges to our annual stewardship appeal. To date, we have received 521 pledges totaling $897,014 toward our goal of $1,500,000. We are endlessly grateful for your commitment to St. Joseph Parish!

If you haven’t yet affirmed your active membership in our parish, please do so, and prayerfully consider what, if any, gift you are able to give to support our work. To speak or write an affirmation is to make your membership intentional and not merely pro forma. In a community of prayer and spirit, such an affirmation, we hope, will also encourage reflection and break the, perhaps, merely habitual ties. So, that is why we ask for annual affirmation.

St. Joseph Epiphany Dinner

On Sunday, January 8, 2017, from 1-4 pm in the Social Hall, we’ll open our doors to anyone in the community for a shared meal and fellowship. We extend a personal invitation to all of our “Outreach Partners,” such as Recovery Café, St. Martin de Porres Shelter, Chief Seattle Club, Noel House, and Jubilee Women’s Center, to name a few. Transportation will be provided from several locations downtown. As is our tradition, we invite members of our community to provide cooked turkeys, hams, vegetables, potatoes, beverages, desserts and appetizers. Volunteers are needed for food prep, cooking, decorating, table hosting and clean-up.

Sign-ups are super-easy! Visit PerfectPotluck.com and locate the meal by coordinator last name (Wodzanowski) and password (Epiphany). Sign-up by entering your name, email & phone number for the item you would like to bring. You can also sign-up after Mass. Thank you in advance for your generosity! Questions? Please contact Deacon Steve at stevew@stjosephparish.org or 206-965-1646.

IRA Charitable Rollover

The IRA Charitable Rollover allows individuals who are 70-1/2 years old to donate up to $100,000 to charitable organizations directly from their IRA. This transfer counts toward the minimum required distribution rule for IRA accounts, and such distributions are free of both income and estate taxes. To qualify, contributions must come from a traditional IRA or Roth IRA, and they must be made directly to qualified charities like St. Joseph Parish or St. Joseph School. Additionally, the donor may not receive goods or services in exchange for the donation, and they must retain a receipt from each charity to which a donation is made. For more information, please consult your financial advisor or contact Tina O’Brien, our Director of Advancement, at stewardship@stjosephparish.org or 206.965.1654.
