The Vision of Love

What is the response when you start to see the world, including first and foremost yourself, as sacramental—when you become, to use Hopkins’ term, “a beholder”? The response is love. Even before faith, love is the effect of sacramental vision. Faith comes later, for faith always carries an element of knowledge within it, and knowledge depends on love. We do not know and then love what we know. We love and then are able to know. Love is always primary.

-Michael J. Himes-

My mother, Kathryn Moriarty, was born, the last of four children, in the working-class city of Chicopee, Massachusetts, just a few years before the Great Depression (1925). Her father was doctor—a general practitioner, known for his ability as a diagnostician—who never made a fortune at medicine, mostly because so few of the immigrant Polish and Irish patients he saw could afford to pay him, and he was not very good at collections. Yet, “Doc” Moriarty (as everyone called him) never hesitated to go when he was called, and his office, in the back of the family house, was opened whenever anyone needed help. Her mother, Elizabeth Bowen Moriarty, though she had only a sixth-grade education, treasured learning, and so made sure that all of her daughters had the chance to attend college—at Trinity in Washington, D.C.. Though mismatched by many reckonings, my grandparents loved each other passionately, and passed that love along to their children, leaving to each of them a legacy of joy and faith, which even great loss and suffering could never destroy. In the father who doted on her and the mother whose strength and stubbornness were grounded in love, my mother received a vision of the world where grace was active, and where the presence of God was as close as one’s own heart.

Shaped by the love of her parents, my mother came to see the world as “charged with the grandeur of God,” and grew up believing that God wanted what was best for her. So it was that she was not surprised when—just a few days after she had finished a rosary novena to Mary, asking to find a good Catholic man—she met a lanky FBI agent at a cocktail party that she and her friend had crashed. Though when she first saw him, she would later swear, he had another girl sitting on his knee, they soon were talking and laughing together. Though he was just the man her father had told her to avoid—a Bostonian and graduate of Holy Cross College—he saw him with her heart, and quickly knew that, as she would say later in life, “The others I dated were okay, but they were no Bill Whitney.” After about six dates, they were married at Holy Family Church in Chicopee, and headed 3,000 miles across the country, to the tiny desert town of Richland, Washington, where my father had been reassigned. Completely uprooted from family and friends, from the life she knew and the region in which she had grown, my mother went without hesitation—her ‘Yes!’ rooted in the love in which she had grown and in her faith, both in the husband she loved and in the God who had been with her always.

The legacy of love, given to my mother from the start of her life, did not prevent her from suffering and loss, from pain and anguish. It did not make her foolish or naïve. But it placed in her a foundation that could not be destroyed, a sense of God's presence in the world that remained even when so many hopes and dreams, built on that foundation, were lost in the storms of life. Struck, as a young mother, by the grave sickness of my sister, Elizabeth, she grew stronger and more courageous, even as she plumbed deep wells of sadness and fear that she never before had imagined. She saw people she adored pass away—most painfully her beloved sister, Barbara, and, at age 67, my father—leaving her a widow at age 62; and though, for awhile she seemed adrift, she found her feet again and continued her life, not free from sorrow, but confident that she could and would do all that was asked of her by God: praying for her children and (at times) driving them a little crazy with her desire to support them and to keep them from suffering. In her last years, as she became more infirm (a condition she never particularly accepted), my mother saw her abilities to control and to slip gradually away, and it pained her and challenged her a great deal; yet, she remained strong in her faith and her kindness. Whether it was leaving soft-drinks out for the garbage men, about whose families she knew almost everything, or chatting with the cheese-merchant at the market about her son the priest, my mother, until the day she died, drew from her store of love to bless those she encountered.

Since the death of my mother in 2008, I have reflected often on the love she passed on to me and to my sisters and brothers. And I have come to see how much that original grounding in love has allowed me to know and believe in the presence of God in all creation. Yet, that love did not come to be out of thin air—it did not originate in my mother solely by her own efforts or choices; rather, she, too, was the beneficiary of such love from her own parents, who, likewise, were loved enough to over-

As the number of disciples continued to grow, the Hellenists complained against the Hebrews because their widows were being neglected in the daily distribution. So the Twelve called together the community of the disciples and said, "It is not right for us to neglect the word of God to serve at table. Brothers, select from among you seven reputable men, filled with the Spirit and wisdom, whom we shall appoint to this task, whereas we shall devote ourselves to prayer and to the ministry of the word." The proposal was acceptable to the whole community, so they chose Stephen, a man filled with faith and the Holy Spirit, also Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicholas of Antioch, a convert to Judaism. They presented these men to the apostles who prayed and laid hands on them. The word of God continued to spread, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem increased greatly; even a large group of priests were becoming obedient to the faith.

Responsorial Psalm

(5, 11 & 5:30) Let Your Mercy Be On Us

1. Your words, O God, are truth indeed, and all your works are ever faithful;
You love justice and right, your compassion fills all creation.

2. See how the eye of God is watching, ever guarding all who wait in hope, to deliver them from death and sustain them in time of famine.

3. Exult, you just, in the Lord, for praise is the song of the righteous! How happy the people of God, the ones whom God has chosen.

4. Our soul is waiting for God, for God is our help and our shield. May your kindness, O God, be upon us who place our hope in you.

Beloved: Come to him, a living stone, rejected by human beings but chosen and precious in the sight of God, and, like living stones, let yourselves be built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. For it says in Scripture:

Behold, I am laying a stone in Zion, a cornerstone, chosen and precious, and whoever believes in it shall not be put to shame.

Therefore, its value is for you who have faith, but for those without faith:

The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone,

and

A stone that will make people stumble, and a rock that will make them fall.

They stumble by disobeying the word, as is their destiny.

You are "a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people of his own, so that you may announce the praises" of him who called you out of darkness into his wonderful light.
Jesus said to his disciples: "Do not let your hearts be troubled. You have faith in God; have faith also in me. In my Father’s house there are many dwelling places. If there were not, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back again and take you to myself, so that where I am you also may be. Where I am going you know the way." Thomas said to him, "Master, we do not know where you are going; how can we know the way?" Jesus said to him, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. If you know me, then you will also know my Father. From now on you do know him and have seen him." Philip said to him, "Master, show us the Father, and that will be enough for us." Jesus said to him, "Have I been with you for so long a time and you still do not know me, Philip? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father. How can you say, ‘Show us the Father?’ Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I speak to you I do not speak on my own. The Father who dwells in me is doing his works. Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me, or else, believe because of the works themselves. Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever believes in me will do the works that I do, and will do greater ones than these, because I am going to the Father."

Introduction

Our beautiful art-deco Church with its bell tower has served us well since it was built in 1929. Through the generosity of many over several years, the interior needs of our church building have largely been taken care of. The pews were replaced, the altar was reconfigured, new lighting was installed, and many of our stained glass windows were repaired and protected. However, the exterior of our church is showing the ravages of the Northwest weather.
Repair of the St. Cecilia and Coronation of Mary Stained Glass Windows

These beautiful works of art are two of the most visible, valuable, and beloved components of our house of worship: the St. Cecilia rose window, a hallmark of the main church entry on 18th Avenue, and the Coronation of Mary window situated above the Mary mosaic in the northeast corner of the church and visible from 19th Avenue.

Pieces of colored glass in the window are currently very vulnerable, due to lack of adequate support bars and the failing lead connecting strips and solder joints. To preserve the windows, they need to be removed and taken to a professional studio, where they will be re-leaded with new strips and new solder joints. The window sashes will be inspected, scraped, painted, and fixed. New properly vented protective glass will be installed on the exterior side of the windows.

Estimated Cost for Repair: $250,000

Painting and Restoration of Church Exterior

The Church was last painted 25 years ago and without the protection of a new coat of paint, the exterior walls will erode, resulting in very expensive damage. Cleaning, repairing, and restoring of terra cotta joints is also clearly needed, as well as the removal and replacement of failed caulk at windows, and attention to the 5 spots in the roof that leak. Painting a church as large as ours is no easy task. Scaffolding must be installed so workers can safely reach the highest points (10 stories up on 19th Ave). As with any paint job, old paint will need to be scraped, walls repaired where needed, and prepped for painting.

Estimated Cost: $1,095,000
To make your gift, please use the designated envelopes found in the pews, or go to our website www.stjosephparish.org and click on the “Paint & Repair St. Joseph” picture link. Repair of Bell Tower Roof Membrane and Lighting

The Project: While the Bell Tower itself was structurally reinforced during the centennial campaign, we now need to address several issues. Torch down roofing needs to be replaced, access points need to be made safe, and the lighting of the tower needs attention.

Estimated Cost: $100,000

Replace Outdated Boiler Controls

The Project: We need to replace outdated boiler control systems and air draft dampers, original building fans need new bearings, we need to add new steam valves for increased energy efficiency and ability to heat or cool specific areas within the system, and we need to replace or repair radiators in the Church classrooms.

Estimated Cost: $100,000

Replace the Parish Bus

Our parish bus is used nearly every day. From providing transportation for seniors to and from Mass, to senior and youth group outings, to CYO sport teams, to transporting homeless men to our overflow shelter nights October through April, we rely heavily on our bus. Our current bus is a 15-seat 1999 Chevy Express which has increasingly had mechanical issues which require frequent repairs. Estimated Cost: $60,000 – used; $90,000 – new

Total Estimated Cost for Phase One: $1,605,000

Join us in prayer on Monday, May 15th at 7 pm. There are two prayer groups meeting at St. Joseph that night. Join our Sacred Silence prayer group in the church or come pray the Rosary in the Parish Center Chapel.

The Sacred Silence prayer group will gather in the church for an hour of silent prayer. Newcomers always welcome. Open to all types of prayer practice. Participants need to enter the church before 7 PM as the church is locked in the evening. For information on Sacred Silence and silent prayer contact Jim Hoover at sacredsilence@stjosephparish.org or 206-286-0313.

Praying the Rosary can help us face the often harsh realities of life with hope and grace. Pray the Rosary at St. Joseph for the first time or the thousandth. People will help guide those who are just learning. Bring your own Rosary beads, count on your fingers or use a smartphone app such as iRosary.
